

Professor Peter Lane,

Senior Researcher & Statistical Consultant

The Fenner School of Environment and Society

ANU College of Medicine, Biology & Environment Frank Fenner Building

The Australian National University

Handling missing data in clinical trials

I summarize relevant theory and current practice regarding the analysis of longitudinal clinical trials intended to support regulatory approval of medicinal products, concentrating on published research regarding methods for handling missing data. The recommendations came from a cross-industry team, of which I was a member, working for a PhRMA initiative (Pharmaceutical Research and Manufacturers of America) to improve efficiency of late-stage clinical research.